DAVID KAYNOR

David is nationally acclaimed master fiddler from Massachusetts, an inspiring teacher, composer, caller of contra dances (and teller of bad jokes). He performs and plays at concerts and dances as well as instructs in music camps and courses all over the country. One of these is Dance Musicians Week at the John Campbell Folk School in the Pressley Girls' hometown, where he has encouraged their musical development and expression of their talents. They, their family and mutual friends have, in turn, inspired David to compose a number of really fine tunes.

THE PRESSLEY GIRLS

Katie and Corie Pressley are twins, singers, songwriters and musicians who were born and raised in the village of Brasstown in the Smokey Mountains of far western North Carolina. They are grounded in Appalachian folk traditions, bluegrass, gospel and country music. Although just in their early 20's, they are having an impact keeping traditional music alive locally. This will be their first trip North and they are excited for the opportunity to perform here and to interact with Michigan musicians and music lovers.
